Shiva in San Francisco, California 50 months ago	my mom and dad idea of my being a doctor was something undisputable. I had no any other options to choose or think over and I really am glad i didnt. My parents wished me to be a doc so I did it.
Magda, London 48 months ago	My best friends at school were Bella and Sue and it was something like real friendship if you know what i mean...so we decided to apply to the same British College of Art. We study together still)
Jorge, Vinesuella 36 months ago	you must be kidding!!! career is something personal, it`s like cheese or bean soup - either u like it or not. you have your own hobbies, interests, passions so these are the key factors here.
Job Hunter5 in Wyoming, Michigan 25 months ago	I`ve never had such a problem! All the members of my family are lawyers so am I. it`s so great to have all the support and understanding even in your professional sphere from the closest ones.
Fillipp Vizzo, Crasder 22 months ago	hey guys, am I the only here to be not that much successful at school? our diploma will choose where you CAN apply with your results!
Christine, Ausburn 22 months ago	you should study the job market, take into consideration availability, salary, promotion, skills needed and of course demand for such a career.
Austin, Texas 50 months ago	Consult your teachers- they know you well enough to advice. If you dont trust them....well... there are plenty of job advisors, psychologists and proforientation specialists that are eager to help everyone...
Angela, St. on Avon 1 month ago	Friends and close people! who knows u better than they? they know your talents, personality, your traits of character....what suits you best of all.
Alan, Nebraska 1 month ago	Parents only!!! who cares more than they?
